CHARGES NEWS CONSPIRACY TO DEFEAT M'ADOO

Rockwell Declares All
Favorable Publicity
Suppressed.

IS NATION-WIDE

Says Republican and Reactionary
Democratic Press Have Combined Against Candidate.

By Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, June 3.—A nation-wide conspiracy among newspapers against William Gibbs McAdoo for the Democratic presidential nomination is charged in a signed statement today by David Ladd Rockwell at McAdoo headquarters here.

"Almost the entire Republican press and all reactionary Democratic press have combined to suppress all news favorable to McAdoo's candidacy," Rockwell declared, "unfavorable news being given prominent display, he asserted."

Mrs. Willebrandt Guest Here Today

Hon. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general of the United States, was guest of honor at a luncheon given today at the Hotel Cumberland by members of the Woman's Club. After the luncheon she gave an informal talk to women present, describing her work and telling of the work for women to do in their communities.

Mrs. Willebrandt, while holding one of the highest and most responsible positions in the country, has lost none of the charm of femininity and is a most engaging person, both in personality and conversation.

She has charge of the prosecution of all prohibition and tax cases and it was of this work that she spoke to the women today. Last year 57,000 prohibition cases were prosecuted through her office, she said, speaking of the enormity of the work and the impossibility for Federal prosecution of petty liquor cases. These, she said, should be attended to by the city or county, leaving the axes of smuggling and large liquor trafficking to the Federal department. Complete enforcement will be impossible without this, she said, discounting Gov. At Smith's plan of leaving it all up to Uncle Sam. She urged greater interest in community law enforcement, saying that the local bootlegger never existed where a community did not want him.

Mrs. Willebrandt was particularly active in such cases as the Congressional Langley prosecution, the millionaire bootlegger Remus' conviction, the break up of the Big Four whiskey ring in Georgia and others, some of which she told of to her interested audience.

Mrs. Willebrandt was born in Kansas and received her early education in Michigan. She taught in the Michigan public schools for a short while after which she went to the University of California where she was graduated with the B. A. and M. A. degrees. She was principal of the Lincoln Park School in Pasadena for three years. After being admitted to the bar in 1915 Mrs. Willebrandt began the practice of law in California. During the time she has practiced she has been the attorney in two thousand cases as public defender of women.

Mrs. Willebrandt served for several years as chairman of the legal advisory board of the Los Angeles district; she is a member of the American, California and Los Angeles county bar associations, and of the Phi Delta Fraternity.

M'CLURE RESIGNS PASTORATE HERE

Methodist Minister Will Enter Evangelistic Field—Effective In September.

The Rev. W. K. McClure has resigned the pastorate of the M. E. Church, South, to enter the evangelistic field. The resignation will take effect when a minister to succeed him is appointed at the next annual state conference which will be held the first week in September.

Rev. McClure's resignation comes as a surprise to the members of his church and to his host of friends in this vicinity. Members of his flock have implored him to remain with the church but he announces his decision is irrevocable.

He will go to Curry June 16 where he will conduct a two weeks' evangelistic campaign. He will return to Middlesboro at the close of that meeting and go to St. Louis July 13 for a week's lecture work with the summer assembly of the St. Louis conference. During that week he will lecture on "The Stewardship of Life." After the September Kentucky conference he will enter evangelistic work permanently. He already has a number of evangelistic engagements in West Virginia and Kentucky.

Rev. McClure has been with the Middlesboro M. E. Church, South, three years. During that period the church has experienced a wonderful growth. During his residence here he has also been in the forefront in all worthy religious and civic causes. He has been a minister of the gospel for twenty-seven years and has held a number of pastorates. He came here from Flemingsburg. His friends will be glad to know that he will continue to make his home in Middlesboro.

Leopold and Loeb were identified yesterday as attackers who maintained charges Ream, by an operation five days after the killing of Tracy.

BANKRUPT REALTOR IS STILL MISSING

S. R. Rambo Mysteriously Disappears
From Knoxville Hospital Early Yesterday.

KNOXVILLE, June 3.—Search continues for S. R. Rambo, bankrupt realtor who mysteriously disappeared from the Port Sanders hospital yesterday morning.

The patient left without leaving any apparent clues as to the manner of his going. It is thought that he had a confederate on the outside who assisted in his flight. The clothing he wore to the hospital was gone though his other effects were left.

Mr. Rambo filed a petition for voluntary bankruptcy in the federal court recently giving his personal and business liabilities as $1,870,540.38 and his assets as $623,006.06. It is believed that his financial difficulties caused him to leave though some of his friends are of the opinion that he was in fear of bodily harm, it having been reported he had received anonymous letters recently.

Mr. Rambo is one of the leading business men in Knoxville and perhaps the best known real estate dealer in East Tennessee. He is 49 years old.

THIEF GETS CASH, VALUABLE PAPERS

Overlooks $500 In Gold at Cannon's
Creek Home — Dogs Follow
Trail Here.

Overlooking $500 in gold that was hidden in the house of Jim Johnson on Cannon's Creek, near Middlesboro-Pineville road, yesterday afternoon, a thief was able to steal $265 in currency and papers valued at $2,800.

The family was out of the house at the time and the doors were locked. Entrance to the building was made at the window as the torn screen indicated. A trunk was broken open and the contents scattered. The bill-fold containing the currency and the valuable papers was hidden under a pillow on a bed.

Mr. Johnson who was hoeing corn in a field near the house saw a man wearing a brown suit hurriedly leaving the place. Shortly afterwards the robbery was discovered. Middlesboro and Pineville officers were immediately notified and a search for the house-breaker began.

Bloodhounds from LaFollette were sent here yesterday afternoon and started on the trail of the robber. They are said to have followed a trail toward Middlesboro to a point near the Standard Oil plant and to have lost it there. It is probable that the fugitive availed himself of an automobile or other conveyance there.

"Been to Funeral," Defense of Negro Held As Drunk

"I had been to a funeral, judge, and my eyes were red from weeping; I wasn't drunk — haven't drunk any liquor for three years! This defense was made by a negro in police court today who was charged with being drunk and disorderly.

Chief H. E. Ball testified that he based his conclusions regarding the defendant's condition from the odor of his breath rather than the color of his eyes. The negro, admitting he was disorderly, was asked by the judge how much he ought to be fined on that charge.

"Why, $14.25, of course," the negro, who seemed to be familiar with police court customs, stated. The fine which he suggested was imposed.

Zambler, of Jellico, is at the head of the enterprise, according to reports, and J. A. Morris who was tentatively connected with the proposed enterprise here is not interested in it.

Mr. Zambler, being known in Jellico, had little difficulty in promoting the enterprise there on a much smaller scale than was planned for Middlesboro. It is understood that Mr. Morris has gone to Baltimore for other work.

Before a vote could be reached in the House on the McNary-Haugen agricultural relief bill, supporters of the measure, conceding its defeat agreed to work for the adoption of its substitute.

Democratic leaders made an unsuccessful attempt to instruct the House conferees to accept the Horah amendment designed to give publicity to campaign contributions, establishment of a new Federal department of education and relief recommended in the report submitted today by a joint congressional committee of reorganization of executive departments.

The Senate plans for adjournment by next Saturday encountered opposition when the southern senators demanded final disposition of the Museum Shoals measure this session.

Dr. McVey Warns Students University
Will Dray All
Violators.

By Associated Press.
LEXINGTON, Ky., June 3.—The suspension of five University students by the discipline committee of the institution on charges of participation in activities of "senior court" traditional student regulatory body, has been set aside with the understanding that the senior court ceases to exist as a functioning governmental body, Dr. Frank L. McVey, president of the university, announced before the first convocation of the student and faculty body.

Dr. McVey, in announcing that he had taken the liberty, after due consideration, to set aside the suspension of the five men by the discipline committee, inevitably forced to that, did so "with the full understanding, appreciation and confidence that the senior court ceases to exist as a functioning governmental body of the University of Kentucky."

Declaring that he was "giving" public notice to the student body, Dr. McVey said the University of Kentucky would stand firmly behind the state and federal laws regarding the violation of prohibition and would have no option except to suspend or expel students guilty of using intoxicating liquors.

KLANSMEN CAN'T SERVE ON JURY

Judge A. T. Manning of London, Gives
Stinging Rebuke to Secret Order.

By Associated Press.
LONDON, June 3.—The most stinging rebuke administered so far to the Ku Klux Klan in Kentucky has been inflicted here by Circuit Judge A. T. Manning, of the district which embraces several mountain counties in which the Klan has a strong foothold.

When prospective jurors were called Judge Manning asked each man if he was a member of the "order known as the Invisible Empire of the Ku Klux Klan," or was in any other way connected with the order to the extent that he considered he owed allegiance to the Klan.

Two of the panel men admitted they held such views and promptly were relieved of service. After their places had been filled, Judge Manning, before a crowded courtroom, quoted the Constitution setting forth the doctrine of freedom to all, regardless of race or religion.

"The law makes these guarantees, and the law of the land cannot be enforced by juries which are schooled in religious and racial hatred against classes of fellow citizens," declared Judge Manning.

"There is no place on a jury for a man whose oath to a secret organization is superior to a oath in court."

Every boy and girl will not only become a student at the university but will become a sleuth ferreting out information to take back home with him. All the facilities of the institution are being turned over to the juniors and for five days they will play the part of university students.

Reports from fifty-one of the sixty-seven counties which are sending delegates show that the registration thus far will be 272 boys, 230 girls and 51 leaders, or a total of 553.

A CALL TO PATRIOTISM

Mr. Alfred L. Stearns, Principal of Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass., in the course of a letter to the editor of this paper, says:

"I cannot help feeling that in some ways the challenge which confronts high-minded and patriotic American citizens today to fight for their country, is a greater, and more serious one even than that which we heard during the war."

This view expressed by one of the leading educators of the country is unquestionably true. There is a call to patriotism today greater than was the call to patriotism during the war. When President Wilson called the nation to arms on the specific statement that Germany was making war upon us, he stirred the patriotism of the whole country; but the dangers then were not so great as are the dangers of today. Then the danger was from an outside enemy. Today the danger is from enemies at home. These enemies are the men and women who are violating the laws of the land, and thus doing their utmost to pull down American flag and trample it in the mire, and the radical elements in and out of Congress who by their teachings are destroying confidence in our Constitution. Radical politicians, weak-minded parlor-Bolsheviks, male and female, "long-haired men and short-haired women" as they have been called, and radical labor leaders, are combining under a flag of destruction to our Government.

Any man who attempted the physical act of hauling down and trampling the American flag during the war would have been regarded as fit only for the firing squad. But today men of high degree and men of low degree, men of wealth and men of poverty, men of education and men without education, are hauling down the American flag and trampling it beneath their feet, in effect spitting upon it as a thing of contempt. They are despising the thing for which the American flag stands, viz. obedience to law, and the high and holy purpose to recognize that Old Glory stands for patriotism and not for the breaking of every law which is contrary to the wish of the individual man who desires to disregard it.

It is, indeed, true that the danger which now confronts this country is greater than the danger of destruction by the German armies, for the country is now being stabbed in the back by men who have professed loyalty to it. And these men are preaching lawlessness. They are telling their friends, even the school boys of the day, that violation of law is "a thing of which to be proud as indicating a man's independence of spirit, and his refusal to obey any law which does not suit his own convenience. This spirit is growing so rapidly, and has been developing for so many years, that the men and women of this country who love this land, who want to see it saved from ruin, need to be aroused to a new sense of patriotism. And patriotism means among other things obedience to law, and the upholding of laws so long as they are on the statute books. It means also that the man who violates our laws must be regarded exactly as the slacker or the deserter in war times would be regarded by his comrades in arms as well as by all patriotic people.

Let us have a new call to patriotism, a new awakening to the dangers which face us as a nation through the breaking down of law.—Manufacturers' Record.

WANTED—A SCHOOL FOR CONGRESSMEN

It would be an excellent thing, indeed, if it were required of every man offering for the position of representative in Congress that he should show a diploma from some accredited school of statesmanship.

Such a school or university course should teach, first of all, the constitution of the United States with the history of the proceedings of the convention in which it was formulated (the theories of finance underlying trade and commerce; comparative history of the states; the formulation of laws with special reference to their constitutionality, and the history and growth of parties.

These things are taught more or less perfunctorily and in greater or less detail, in all colleges and universities, but the fact remains that the average congressman is ill-equipped for the duties he is to perform. He is often chosen because of qualities for a legislative position. And the worst of it is that there are so many with the same degree of unpreparedness that he does not realize his unfitness for the job. They lack even the educational foundation for a legislative career. They do not know enough to appreciate the needs of their constituents nor the inevitable effect of the laws they propose. Especially they have no conception of necessity of keeping within the restrictions placed in the constitution by the "founding fathers" who were students of government and acquainted with the causes of failure in all previous attempts at popular government.

If our government is to be preserved from the vagaries of aggressive minorities—socialists, communists and anarchists—we must stick to first principles, and not be misled by the propaganda of wrong-headed phrase makers, who care nothing for the principles which underlie our governmental structure.

Surely it would be an excellent thing if we required of those who seek our votes that they prove their fitness.

Protect The Animals
Editor Daily News:—Perhaps when the community playground for Middlesboro is a reality the children will not have time to use their sling shots as freely as they are doing today, on other people's property, destroying the birds, animals, even the frogs in the ponds. It certainly is a cruel amusement and should be stopped. The sooner children are taught protection instead of being allowed to destroy dumb creatures, this will be a better world in which we live. God gave us animals to protect and not to abuse.

Dr. Vance Goes To Near East Relief

NASHVILLE, June 3.—America may transform the storm center of Europe into a peace haven through its Near East relief, Dr. James I. Vance, pastor of the First Presbyterian church here, said in his farewell sermon before leaving for Europe on a special mission from his church to the famine-stricken area. HUNT'S WASHINGTON LETTER

By Harry B. Hunt

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Democrats if they are wise will put the man they want to be president in the second place on their ticket—provided, of course, that he is a real honest-to-God, upstanding, progressive sort of gent.

Such is the suggestion of LaFollette supporters who believe that if progressive Democrats play the game shrewdly they will be able by getting their man on the ticket as vice presidential candidate, to land him in the White House on March 1, 1925.

Sounds rather absurd and foolish, doesn't it? But it's really a very wise and astute proposal. And there's absolutely no catch in it! Follow carefully and you'll find how very simple it is.

With Democrats and Republicans in a neck-and-neck race a third or independent party which could carry even four or five states would, by preventing either old party from obtaining a majority of the electors, throw the election into Congress.

That much is conceded and is old stuff. It has been recounted over and over of late.

In which event the House of Representatives, voting by states, must try to elect a president and the Senate, voting as individuals, ballots for vice-president.

With five of the 18 state delegations tied as between Republicans and Democrats, neither party holds a clear majority, by states, in the House. LaFollette also would be able to control the vote of Wisconsin, recorded as Republican, and perhaps of Minnesota and North Dakota. A deadlock which could be maintained indefinitely might result there.

In the Senate, where the membership votes as individuals, the Democrats in LaFollette's progress would hold together, a clear majority. If the De-

HALF MILLION FOR CHEMISTRY CHAIR

Rockefeller Board Makes Endowment to Harvard Research Department.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 3.—Bishop William Lawrence today announced that Harvard University has been given $500,000 for Chemistry by the General Education Board, founded by John D. Rockefeller.

As the chairman of the committee to extend the national service of Harvard which is raising a minimum of $10,000,000 for chemistry, business, and fine arts, Bishop Lawrence today gave out the following statement:

"On behalf of Harvard University I am glad to be able to announce the receipt of $50,000 from the General Education Board founded by John D. Rockefeller, as part of the $3,000,000 which Harvard University is raising for the erection of new chemistry laboratories and the endowment of chemical research.

"By the use of the new laboratories towards which this contribution is such an important step, the University's service will be commensurate both with the needs of the country for progress in chemistry, and with the scientific progress which the country has a right to expect from a great university.

"In spite of the fact that chemistry is one of the most popular studies at Harvard and that many of the chemistry faculty's achievements and methods in original research are recognized throughout the world as Harvard Methods, almost all of the instruction and research has been housed in a laboratory erected in 1857, known as Boylston Hall. This laboratory, because of its inadequate facilities and lack of modern equipment has constituted an almost unworkable handicap.

orally vice presidential candidate was satisfactory to the LaFollette group, there would be little delay in putting him across.

Suppose then—since this is purely a speculative story—March 1 arrives without the House having selected a president.

President Coolidge's term expires at noon March 1. No successor, as such has been chosen. What happens?

A vice-president, duly elected by the Senate as provided by the constitution has been chosen.

And the vice-president, in event a vacancy occurs in the presidency, succeeds to that office. Therefore—Up steps the man who has been selected by the Senate as vice president to take the tiller of Ship of State. Q. D. D.

Thus is the play figured, and figured seriously. So seriously, in fact that a discussion of a Democratic vice presidential nominee who would be satisfactory to LaFollette has been reached.

Huston Thompson, chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, stands out as the choice for the proposed coalition candidate. It is stated as authoritative that LaFollette believes Thompson is the future leader of the progressive movement in this country and would throw his full support behind him in the presidency.

Should the Democrats name him for second place on the LaFollette ticket, which of course would make the above play logical and reasonable.

Still another move is suggested which might land the long-departed progressive from Colorado in the White House.

Should the Democrats see their way clear to nominate him outright for president, LaFollette would help him land across by keeping out of the race himself.

cap to the instruction of the 800 undergraduates studying chemistry and more than 50 students who have come to Harvard from all over the country for advanced work in chemistry. Simultaneously the lack of facilities has handicapped import at research work upon which the progress of medicine, industry, and the other sciences, wait.

"It is to chemical research that we lay look for the solution of many of our problems of health and disease, for increasing the span of life and for those benefits which an understanding of the laws of nature renders possible. Through a lack of knowledge of these laws men and nature in the past have worked at cross purposes; only by an understanding of these laws can men and nature work together.

"Chemical laboratories of research, although productive of the greatest benefits to humanity, are not productive of revenues for their own support. It is for this reason that we must rely on a public spirited support, such as this generous gift of the General Education Board, for the increased utility of that fundamental science—chemistry."

Held For Attacking Other Near Brewery

Nick Raines was bound to the grand jury under a $500 bond in the city court this morning on charge of attacking and wounding Singleton Chadwell Sunday afternoon in the East End near the brewery building.

Chadwell was found lying in a semi-conscious condition on the roadway Sunday afternoon. He had been struck in the head, apparently by an instrument. He charged Raines with the assault though did not state the details of the affair. He went to Cumberland Gap where Dr. A. L. Fuson treated the wound and reported in writing that he was in a serious condition.

"The Hunchback of Notre Dame," who had read the book, perfect in every detail.

The mob scenes, the marvelous local color, the gorgeous settings of the picture beggar description. When one realizes that the cathedral, the Parisian streets and the castles were all built in Universal city for this particular picture, the immensity of the thing is apparent. Such a setting would make for success apart from the wonderful plot and the splendid cast.

The music, consisting of a special orchestra supplemented by local musicians, added greatly to the picture, also.

How Human Skill Energizes The Bell Telephone Plant

THE $10,184,356 now invested in the Bell Telephone System in Kentucky would be useless, the switchboards would be idle and the poles would fall except for the 1,318 loyal, efficient telephone workers who are devoting their lives to this essential public service.

The 251,200 poles, the 188,788 miles of wire and the millions of dollars' worth of switchboard are energized into a complete, living system of communication by the skill of this human regiment.

Last year they built more than $850,000 worth of additions to the telephone system and added 3,793 new telephones by handling more than 20,000 stations.

The operators handled more than 128,559,000 local and long distance calls at a speed and with an accuracy which makes your telephone service the equal of that anywhere.

Most of the telephone people are your neighbors and friends. They are proud of their State and of their company. Your friendly encouragement inspires them to greater accomplishment.

L. M. U. HEAD IS HIGHLY HONORED

Dr. R. O. Matthews Made Official of the National Arbitration Society.

HARROGATE, June 3.—President Robert Orville Matthews, has just been informed of his designation by the National Arbitration Society of America in being made one of its official arbitrators. He has just been informed of his designation by Judge Moses H. Grossman, acting president of the society.

The national arbitration society is the only national organization representing the arbitration movement. According to Judge Grossman, it has the united support of the bench and bar, the American press and practically every branch of the business and professional life of the country.

The aim of the society is to do away with the delays so often prevalent in the courts, to put an end to the congested conditions of the court calendars and to insure to the people a speedy administration of justice and a saving in time, money and worry.

In his letter of acceptance, Dr. Matthews said "I accept the office of the official arbitrator and will do my utmost to be of service, although, as you know my services will be limited because of my own geographical and, I might add, psychological limitations. The purpose, aim and accomplishment of your organization made it a very signal honor for any man to be in any way affiliated in its program."

Relics of Early Middleboro Unearthed in Street Work

Relics of an almost forgotten age in Middleboro's history were unearthed on East Cumberland avenue under the L. and N. Railway bridge by the Hubbard Construction company while grading the street recently.

An old steel rail whose identity was almost lost in the accumulation of three decades of rust and some fragments of ties were taken from the excavation. These are remnants of the old "timons" line which formerly extended from the Junction to Davis Branch and whose route was Cumberland avenue.

Old timers recall the days of the old "timons" line. The engine was one of the ancient cow-wheel makes and played an important part in local transportation problems of the day. It is said to have hauled the large bed rocks for the base of West Cumberland avenue. The line was discontinued about 1890.

A man named Scott was the engineer of the little locomotive and Sam Slate was the conductor. Both members of the crew have long since left Middleboro.

Secret Order of London Boys Hard On Windowpanes

LONDON, June 3.—Being impressed by the easy living made by organizers of ultra-secret societies, two young London boys, eight and nine years old, conceived a new oath bound order and after naming it "The Black X" proceeded with the solicitation of members.

It is said that part of the initiation consisted of taking a brick from a house chimney and throwing it through a window, which was supposed to prove the bravery of the candidate. The favorite meeting place was the vacant house on the hill back of Dr. Crook's, and belonging to St. Metcalf, a former vocational student of the S. R. M. S.; and proof of the rapid spread of the Order is that before the actions of the youths were learned by their elders all the windows and glass doors in the house were broken and the chimney was badly damaged.

MOST VALUABLE MINERAL COAL

Gold Last In Importance On List of American Products Just Compiled.

Ask a friend what the fourth most valuable American mineral product is in terms of total production. Ask him where gold stands on the list. He is likely to put gold first and silver second. He may get coal, iron and petroleum in their right order if he is pretty well read up on such things, but chances are he will fall down on the fourth article in Uncle Sam's list recently made available as of the year 1920.

The saying that our wealth comes out of the earth is well known, but not so well understood. It is one of those things we hear, take for granted, and think very little about.

For instance, little do we think when riding over a brick street or highway, or watching the erection of a brick building, or a brick sewer, that clay products stand fourth on the list of most valuable mineral products from a standpoint of production. Thus it is, in the case of brick pavements, that earth furnishes the material which helps us conquer the mud and speed up transportation.

Try this list on your friends. Here it is as officially compiled:

|---------------------|-----------------|
| Coal (soft) | $1,950,000,000 |
| Iron (pig) | 1,137,925,000 |
| Petroleum | 1,360,000,000 |
| Clay Products | 364,220,000 |
| Copper | 222,467,000 |

|----------------------|-------------|
| Stone | 120,500,000 |
| Lead (refined) | 76,250,000 |
| Sand | 62,694,000 |
| Silver | 57,420,000 |
| Gold | 49,509,000 |

Figures for 1923 in the vitrified brick branch of the clay products industries indicate that the total production for that year was about 500,000,000 brick, enough to lay 1,250 miles of 18-foot roadway. In addition to this specialized branch of the industry, there is the common brick, face brick, fire brick, hollow tile and other clay products.

Says Newspapers Best Advertising Medium

LOUISVILLE, June 3.—Newspaper advertising provides a straight line from the factory to the home and is preferable because it is direct, flexible, quick acting, thorough and low in cost, was the statement of L. D. Wallace of the Basham Advertising Agency in addressing the weekly luncheon-meeting of the Advertising Club of Louisville at The Tyler yesterday. Mr. Wallace's subject was "Making the Most of the Space," and he pointed out how in many instances small advertisements yield big results because more time and study is spent in their preparation.

"Confidence in newspaper advertising is held by both the dealer and the consumer," Mr. Wallace said.

The speaker told the advertisers that all advertising is designed to "tell something and sell something." However, he said, everything that attracts attention should not be considered as advertising. The importance of giving copy proper preparation was emphasized by Mr. Wallace, who said that attention value should be considered from every angle.
